Top ten african adventures. tarzan of the apes by edgar rice burroughs (1912) – arguably the most famous of all african adventures, this novel went on to spawn twenty-five sequels, numerous films, and even an oscar-winning song. the story is well known: lord and lady greystoke die in the jungles of central africa,

A bend in the river. an east african indian, salim leaves the east coast of africa to set up shop in a little town on the bend of a river in an unnamed country deep in the interior, but he is plagued by disappointment and failure as the country falls to ruin. it is hardly a cheery book, but compelling and resonant. Please check with your local health department, the centers for disease control and prevention (1-800-232-4636 or cdc), your physician or the africa adventure company office, if you have any questions. African adventures is a volunteer travel company that works with 25 community projects in africa. our partner projects – primarily schools – are located in developing areas of ghana, kenya and zanzibar. Some might argue that the adventure novel has been undermined by the modern age: since you can fly just about anywhere for a relatively reasonable price, or experience on the internet for free, the allure of a story that takes you to far-away places and unfamiliar cultures for the sake of adventure has been lost. African adventure 1999–2002 is an installation comprising thirteen individually titled figures, each of which has a specific placement on a large rectangular area of red bushmanland earth that measures approximately eight by five metres. the two-legged figures are positioned on boxes, barrels or pedestals supported by steel plates concealed beneath the earth.
